

Cole Muzio

Founder and President

Cole Muzio is a Christ-follower, husband, and father of four committed to leading a transformative ministry grounded in the commandments found in both Mark 12:30-31 and 1 Corinthians 9:24

He is President of Frontline Policy Action and Frontline Policy Council, Christian organizations dedicated to raising a biblical and victorious standard. These organizations were launched in 2021 and have seen rapid growth and increased impact.

In his time in Georgia, Cole is proud to have been part of a conservative resurgence at our state Capitol – spearheading the Heartbeat Law, the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, the Riley Gaines Act, the largest expansion of school choice in state history, and a host of other wins. In total, Frontline has endorsed more than 70 bills signed into law by the Governor during the last two years. Additionally, the organization has built an unmatched track record of election wins, developed the largest interdenominational network of churches, and launched a transformative set of programs. This kingdom-vision is, in fact, raising the standard in Georgia

As Frontline enters its sixth year, Cole is most excited about forging the next generation of leaders, witnessing a Great Awakening among the Church, and growing as a statewide force that shapes the battlespace during the crucial 2026 election year. He resides in Peachtree City with his wife, Spencer, and their four children: Peyton, Cade, Jarrett, and Audrey. The Muzios are members of Carriage Lane Presbyterian Church.
